POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

"Featherbed" laws, rules and regulations, adopted at the behest of labor unions in pre-war days, which require the employment of two or three men to do a job that could well be done by one, are due to come under sharp attack during the 1943 session of the state legislature, just convened, and will likely be declared inoperative for the duration of the war emergency.

Leaders in the two lawmaking houses, recognizing that the state is confronted with the most serious shortage of manpower in its history, are determined to break any bottlenecks threatening the success of the war effort—and the problem of "make-work" bills, which aggravate the labor situation, is slated for early action.

The most critical situation resulting from the operation of the so-called "featherbed" regulations is said to be in the railroad industry, where the "full crew law," put into the labor code of 1911 by the railroad brotherhoods, requires the use of six or seven brakemen on most freight trains.

A bill seeking suspension of the "full crew law" for the duration of the war already has been drafted for submission, and the railroads, in a brief supporting it, have advised the legislature that "the use of six or seven brakemen in California is a criminal waste of manpower in war-time when compared to the successful operation of freight trains in other states with two and three brakemen under conditions identical with those found here."

While the railroad brotherhoods which originally sponsored the restrictive law have not yet made known their attitude toward the move to suspend its provisions during the war emergency, legislative leaders indicated that they hoped the unions, in view of the critical shortage of railroad workers, would give their patriotic support to the suspension proposal and thereby facilitate the movement of troops and war materials.

Setting the precedent for this type of action in clearing the transportation bottleneck, it was pointed out, the interstate commerce commission already has suspended the operation of train-limit laws for the duration of the war in the two states having such laws.

The railroads, in presenting their appeal for suspension of the "full crew law," cited day-by-day documentary evidence of scores of California trains delayed in departure by lack of brakemen despite a vigorous and continuous campaign to recruit additional workers.

While the railroad problem resulting from "make-work" enactments is more serious than that of other industries, the legislators are culling the statute books for other measures which are adding to the manpower shortage by requiring added men to do one-man jobs. With the likelihood that the form labor crisis during the next harvest season will be even more acute than that during last summer, farmers will also seek the relaxation of restrictions which are adding to their problems, it was announced.

High School Offers Course In Poultry Raising

The Campbell Union High school is offering a course in "back-yard" poultry raising. The first class will begin on Thursday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p. m. in the agricultural building of the school.

This is one of a series in home food production. Eggs and poultry, says Kenneth Dwelley, instructor, "for meat are hard to get and probably will be harder. Why not put in a small back yard poultry unit in your lot or on the farm?"

The agricultural department has plans for a small unit easy and economical to build. Enroll in this class and build such a unit.

Over one-third of our total national production will be used by the government to feed the armies and for lend-lease shipment.

Gasoline is available upon request from the local gasoline rationing boards for travel to and from such organized classes.

High P.-T. A. to Meet Wednesday

Mrs. Carl Field extends a cordial invitation to all members and friends to attend the Campbell High P.-T. A. meeting in the Little Theater on Wednesday, Jan. 13 at 2 p. m. The mothers from the Cambrian school are hostesses for the day with Mrs. Martin Farnham, chairman. Entertainment will be provided by pupils from Cambrian school.

Speakers of the day are Miss Elna Peterson whose topic is "Home Nutrition and Conservation," and Herbert Hudson, whose topic is "Health."

As usual the Victory Table is to be in evidence and all donations will be gratefully accepted.

Mrs. Field wishes to announce also that the board meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, preceding the regular meeting.

At the last executive board meeting which was held on Dec. 16, the committee discussed the benefits of the scholarship fund derived from the life membership and the problems of the ways and means committee.

Following the board meeting, the fathers were honored in the auditorium by the beautiful Christmas pageant, which is presented annually by students of Campbell High school.

School Poll In Favor of War-Time Schedule

Following an editorial which appeared in Monday's San Jose Mercury Herald stating that the sentiment of parents in the Campbell school district did not favor the present school schedule under war-time hours, an investigation was made by the two principals, W. H. Van Dyke of the high school and Ira R. Abbott of the grammar school.

A poll was taken of the 305 students in the high school at 8:00 a. m. yesterday. Only nine said they would prefer to start at 9 a. m. Of the 305 111 said they are working after school.

All students who walk to school have been urged by teachers to start their classes at 9 instead of 8 a. m. All who walk can make that choice. Of the 305, 143 walk to school.

At the grammar school questionnaires were sent to approximately 1000 parents. Of these, 840 were returned, and 580 parents said they prefer the opening hour of 8:50 to the later opening at 9:50. There are two opening hours in order to stagger the bus schedule. Only 250 voted their preference for 9:50.

The industriousness of the Campbell students was also shown in the report that only 19 of the high school students did not work during the summer. Those who worked earned $79,000. In the elementary school 675 students worked, earning $17,500.

At next weeks meeting of the Campbell club, President Van Dyke will hold a school of instruction for officers and committee chairmen.

The Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting next Monday, Jan. 11 at 8 o'clock in the Little Theater of the high school. Chief subject for consideration will be the proposed extension of the Campbell fire district. District Attorney J. P. Fitzgerald and County Surveyor Robert Chandler have been invited to be present and explain the technicalities.

Talk On Mexican Trip Is Highlight Of Club Meeting

Her travels in Mexico, as related by Mrs. Ira Beal of Campbell, highlighted the Monday afternoon meeting of the Country Woman's club.

Mrs. Beal's trip with her family in 1939 included places and experiences which few American tourists encounter. She found the rapid progress in health and education remarkable. Mrs. Beal felt that the spirit of friendliness and hospitality which the Mexican people extend to Americans should be returned.

The talk was doubly interesting through the showing of pictures taken on the trip, with Mrs. Fred Stephens operating the projector.

Kenneth McDonell of the Campbell High school faculty presented a group of his students in an instrumental program.

A clarinet quartet consisted of Lynne Ekstrand, Martha Craft, Ross Fuller and Stanley Gould. They played two numbers by Carl Busch, "Evening Promenade" and "Playful Mood."

Ross Fuller played a clarinet solo, "Hymn to the Sun" by Rimsky-Korsokoff. Nina Page accompanied at the piano.

A violin duet, "The Golden Wedding" by Gabriel-Marie was played by Bill Courtney and Carl Sorenson. "Adoration" by Borovsky was played by Carl Sorenson. Miss Page accompanied these numbers also.

A surprize was in store for the club members when the committee for the day served Mexican chocolate and cookies made by Mrs. Beal according to the famous Guadalajara hotel receipe.

On display were many beautiful opals which the Beals obtained in Mexico as well as pottery, hand work and other objects of interest.

Mrs. Lloyd Selig served as chairman of the day and her co-hostesses were Mrs. A. D. Rice, Mrs. Frank Blair, Mrs. C. S. Kaneen, Mrs. Henry Jensen, Mrs. E. J. Bohnett, and Miss Jessie Lewis.

This course is open to all farmers who wish to repair or build farm machinery equipment.

The school offers all its facilities, including arc and acetlyene welders for use by farmers.

The need for this course is apparent with the scarcity of shops to make repairs and the inability of farmers to purchase new machinery. Gasoline will be available for those attending this course.

SHOP AT HOME—IT'S PATRIOTIC

From Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, comes a warning that the Nation faces far more drastic restrictions on travel and shipment of goods than the limitations thus far imposed, due to the country's desperate need of all available transportation facilities to handle military personnel and war equipment. He suggests a plan for storing civilian supplies near consuming centers as one safeguard against distribution breakdowns—and strongly urges the public to "shop at home" instead of making needless trips to other communities.

"The mobility of consumers will be greatly restricted," says Mr. Nelson, "both of necessity and by consumer choice. Reduced variety of goods, rationing, price controls, the value of time to the individual, and the general level of consumer incomes are among the factors which will reduce consumers' desire to 'shop around,' or to buy at a distance from home."

Shopping at home always has been a good habit. Now, in war-time, as Mr. Nelson points out, it is a patriotic duty.

JEEPERS!

The Army War Show gave its 99th and last performance in Atlanta recently. There were pawing steeds, trumpets and clowning. It had played to four million people in 18 cities and 15 states, broken many records for attendance! Everybody wanted to see how it was done.

The hit clowning performance of the show was a seven-ton truck, one of the Army's most important vehicles—which stalled. Out of it jumped 38 soldiers who tugged and strained but couldn't budge it. Then from inside the truck, a little jeep ran out, maneuvered up to the truck, hooked it, and rolled off with the ning on having a jeep for a pet when the war is over? giant! Do you know any small boys who aren't plan-

United States troops, who man the guns in America's far-flung battle-lines, have a loyal, grimly-determined second line "behind the guns," passing the ammunition for all they are worth—and praising the Lord that they have the cash to do it!

That, in substance, is what Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau reported when he announced that the December Victory Bond Drive reached "the unbelievable total" of more than Twelve Billion Dollars.

Mr. Morgenthau asked for nine billion—and the people of America raised the ante and gave him twelve! That's really passing the ammunition.

Alert, American citizens! No all clear will sound! The blackout for Axis propaganda must be complete and continuous. Matthew Gordon, chief of the OWI's foreign service, states that both Germany and Japan are mobilizing their powerful mental weapons for a 1943 propaganda offensive.

Among the "word gangsters" to be dealt with, there will be sure to be stories of negotiated peace, in an effort to slow war production. Stories meant to create distrust among the Allies, splitting us on war objectives and peace aims will be rampant. Stories exploiting normal differences between nations will be magnified to look like insuperable obstacles to unity of action.

No more dangerous enemy exists than that which works as our own acceptance of false statements meant to "divide and conquer." Pass out the stirrup pumps and keep the sand bags handy. Know what you're listening to and what you are saying! Tokyo and Berlin are whispering lies!

Kenneth Dwelley Attends War Foods Conference

Kenneth Dwelley of the agricultural department of the high school attended a War Foods conference last week in San Luis Obispo. The meeting was called by Julian A. McPhee, head of the rural war production program, to stimulate production of foods.

The country is facing a critical period this year and next in the matter of food. The 1942 crop was a bumper one, seven per cent above the average, but with the growing shortage of farm help and machinery we could not hope to meet this goal, stated Dwelley. There are at present shortages in dairy products, poultry and meat and these shortages, it is believed, will grow more acute, which is the reason for the emphasis on home production.

Gospel Meetings Prove Successful

Large, attentive audiences, inspiring congregational singing, dynamic gospel preaching, zeal and enthusiasm characterize the meeting being held in the community hall in Campbell each evening. Dee Noonkester is in charge of the song service.

Evangelist Paul M. Tucker, in charge of the meetings being sponsored by the Church of Christ, San Jose ,says the success is surpassing his expectations. The Church of Christ is well pleased with the results of the meetings thus far.

One of the outstanding attractions of the meetings is a question box. The public is invited to place Bible questions in the box for consideration by Evangelist Tucker. The questions asked thus far have been interesting and helpful.

"Miracles and Gifts of the Holy Spirit" will be the sermon subject for Friday evening. Sunday evening, "The Ramparts We Watch" will be discused by the Evangelist. Services will continue each evening throughout next week, except Saturday evening. The public is invited.

Check Presented To War Chest

Associated Students Hear Final Report on Scrap Drive.

An Associated Student Body meeting was held Jan. 5 in the auditorium at 10 o'clock. It was president over by student body president, Dan Clark. The recording secretary, Jane Gerrans, then read the minutes of the previous associated student assembly.

Announcements of the candidates for student council were made by Jay Gould, student manager. Jane Gerrans presented to the Campbell Community and War Chest fund a check for $338.62. Mrs. Ralph H. Hyde, chairman of the drive this year, was present to receive the check in behalf of the chest committee.

Jane Gerrans also presented to the students two war bonds, which were of $50, and $100 denomination.

Jay Gould presented the proposed amendment about the cheer leaders. Other announcements and speeches were also made.

The "children" are average young persons, ranging from nineteen to twenty-five, and they are all striving to reach their goals—novelist, actor, artist, model and housewife. Grandma Hutchinson has a job on her hands when she attempts to make her grandchildren realize their responsibilities of manhood and womanhood.

Kenneth McDonell is directing the play.

Committees which have been appointed in connection with the play are tickets and distribution, Lorraine Pizzo and C. P. Klassen; programs, Paul Mulcahy and Mrs. Dorothy Kurz; properties, Charles Reese; costumes, Carol Lantz and Miss Muriel Carson; publicity, Barbara Broadbent, Helen Matich, and Mrs. Kurz. The make-up will be done by the dramatics class.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"The Three Bamboos" by Robert Standish.

The bamboo tree, as all Japanese know, bends to any wind that blows, but it never breaks, no matter how fierce the storm.

In this novel Three Bamboos are the emblem of the Fureno family. This family boasts loudly of its long line of ancestors, however, for several years prior to the beginning of the story, the family suffered humiliations of the loss of social standing and financial stronghold. It is in the year 1853 that the action of the story begins, when the Elder Fureno, the head of the family, decides that if his family is to again command respect and their rightful recognition he must begin immediately to work toward that goal. The Elder Fureno had three sons, and it is through the efforts of these three sons that he determines to further his campaign.

To begin with, the Elder Fureno engineering the daring fete, the four Japanese men of the House of Fureno, pirate a ship anchored in the nearby harbor. The ship was loaded with priceless cargo consigned to the then ruling family of Japan. Fureno's three sons, once aboard ship, took command in the pirate tradition, the Elder Fureno, returning to the mainland, and sailed out to sea. It was in China that they disposed of their booty, securing sufficient funds to proceed to England and Europe where they spent twenty years in study. Tenjo, the oldest of the three boys, was the master and to him the other two were subjected. Tenjo made himself pleasantly acceptable and found his way into every branch of government and business principally in England and Germany that he felt would benefit him in his efforts to bring his fatherland into the light of the world.

Mr. Standish has plainly mapped out for the reader the unemotional and enduring characteristics of the people about whom he writes. His information is first hand, as he spent several years in Japan. It was during his time there that he wrote most of notes from which his novel is written. Although he begins his tale about the time that Japan was first recognized by the European countries as a possible trading market, he successfully follows its cruel and venomous career, aiming at world domination, up to the very day of Pearl Harbor.

For a clearer insight into the Japanese physical and mental composition one cannot go amiss by reading this book.

Woman Needed for Civilian Engineers

Civil Service Commission announced today. Arrangement have been made for any institution offering college engineering training to give the course, provided that a sufficient number of persons enroll. The course covers problem work in engineering computations, engineering drawing, elementary mechanics of materials, surveying, and job processes and methods.

Regional Service Committee Report

San Francisco has three outstanding opportunities for service to its northern and central California neighbors in 1943, according to the year end report of the municipal Regional Service committee.

First is expansion of the volunteer farm labor recruitment program which performed so great a war service in 1942 by helping get in vitally needed crops. A vastly expanded and carefully implemented volunteer farm labor program will have to be provided, drawing largely upon San Francsico's population reservoir.

Second is extension of the "war-engendered spirit of cooperation which has largely replaced the atmosphere of suspician formerly characteristic of relationships among the eleven counties located on San Francisco bay tidewater."

The third opportunity stressed is stimulation of active community interest in the Central Valley Project, since "no other project in recent years has affected or is likely to affect the trade area upon which San Francisco depends as importantly as this project."

Letters of Miss Ruth Cowles Will Be Published

The following article is the first of several which are extracts of letters written to her mother by Miss Ruth Cowles, a daughter of Mrs. Amy Cowles, a former missionary teacher in Africa, now living in Claremont, California.

The Cowles family made their home in Campbell for a few years and made many friends here. However, the glimpses of life as depicted by Miss Cowles in faraway Union of South Africa from last Christmas time through months of the war year of 1942 make interesting reading for everyone.

Dearest Mother:

Last week a concert was given at the University in the great auditorium for the benefit of the Health Centre. It realized almost two hundred pounds, ($1000). A play given the week before by the medical students realized a big sum too, though they have not heard exactly. It was over a hundred pounds ($500) at any rate! As I sat in the great auditorium realizing that all that was being done for us, I was filled with awe. The University seems to have taken this place on as its special pet. During the year we have had several groups of such very nice medical students, and all of them are grateful for the experience which they gain out here.

Today, when Molly came on duty, she brought with her a young nursing sister who worked under her several years ago. This young "Sister" is going to take Molly's place, for she is leaving to go to be with her husband. It is heartbreaking to have her go, but it is the right thing, and we have been wonderfully fortunate in finding this new Sister to take her place. Miss Hagermann is coming to us the first of July. Last October, I think it was, Miss Hagermann lost her fiance who was killed in action up North. Now she wants work which will keep her so busy she will not have time to think. I like her tremendously and everyone with whom I have spoken has unqualified admiration and praise of her. I really believe her coming is an answer to prayer, and I feel ashamed of my feeling of despair when Molly said she wanted to be released as soon as possible.

May 21, 1942

The other morning I awoke to a world white with snow, and great feathery flakes coming down thick and fast. Imagine it! It was bitterly cold for about three days, and the remains of snow men disappeared slowly. One of them, up near the main gaol, looked very jaunty with coal eyes and buttons, felt hat and a musket in his arms. The children had the time of their lives that day.

Did you get my letter telling of my now having a nurse on night duty all the time? It has made me feel like new, not having broken or uncertain nights. I did not suppose it could make such a difference. It has been especially elegant these cold nights to hear noises downstairs and to know I did not need to get up to investigate! It is worth waking up for to know that you can go back to sleep.

June 1, 1942

I had to undergo an awful ordeal this week, that of speaking before a big crowd at the University. The whole object of the meeting was to arouse interest in Alexandra Township and in the Clinic as a University project. The "symposium" was organized by a group of University women and medical students. The speakers were Professor Brebner, one of Johannesburg's foremost surgeons, and several other leading medical men of the University faculty. My particular part was to present the "human element." How I succeeded I do not know, but people seemed interested. After the meeting, which by the way was "chaired" by Justice Schreiner, we all went down to the big womens' residence for evening tea, a brilliant gathering. I have breathed more freely since that was over.

Church Holds Annual Meeting

The Congregational church held its annual meeting last evening, starting with a dinner.

Klaude Block was elected a deacon to fill the vacancy created by the passing of R. Y. Maxon, and George Jeffers was elected a trustee to replace Mr. Block.

A new office was created, that of secretary of publicity, which Mrs. Thomas Cowper will fill.

Mr. Cowper will have charge of the War Victims fund, and contacts with the church men in service.

All other officers whose terms expired were re-elected.

Pledges for the churcht finances for '43 showed a 20 per cent increase and the collections for benevolences for the past year were $355.00 the highest for the past ten years.

Admitted to membership last week were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Schuyler, Miss Rachel Spradling, and Hugh Nelson, Jr. Young Nelson is now in service at Seattle but will be received on his first visit home.

YODORA DEODORANT CREAM

When Your Back Hurts—

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

DOAN'S PILLS

New understanding, new courage new determination, new faith— these point the way to Victory!

Let's write new resolutions upon these clean pages with which begins the record of 1943. Let's shed complacency, smugness, over-confidence. Let's talk less and do more. We've got so much more of luxury, comfort and convenience than any other people on earth that we should write on that blank page:

"RESOLVED, that I shall not complain about
No tires, no tubes.
No new home appliances.
No seat on car or bus.
Rationed sugar, coffee, gasoline
. . . the many things I must do without now in war to make sure I shall have them again in peace."

"RESOLVED, that I shall . . .
Waste nothing.
Do no thoughtless spending.
Buy War Bonds and Stamps."

"RESOLVED, that no matter what sacrifice my country may demand of me from now on until the day of Victory, I shall meet it with a smile, and say: That's right! Count me in!"
